PRESS RELEASE

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER

7.30 pm, 12 May 2009

A Mapp Mundi, Theatr Mwldan, Torch Theatre Co-Production

Directed by Peter Doran

Mappa Mundi's new production of Oliver Goldsmith's groundbreaking 18th Century farce – She Stoops to Conquer - runs at Aberystwyth Arts Centre on Tuesday 12th May, 7.30pm.

Two foppish suitors travelling to a country manor house are tricked into believing it to be a tavern in a practical joke played by the irresponsible and irrepressible Tony Lumpkin. Upon arrival the dandies treat their host, the longsuffering Mr Hardcastle, like an innkeeper. But this works to the advantage of his pretty and intelligent daughter Kate, who cleverly disguises herself as a bar-maid in order to win the heart of her disastrously tongue-tied suitor. With an outrageous mix of secret elopements and nocturnal confusions, this comedy of manners sports witty dialogue, cutting humour and big wigs!

Tickets for this production are £10 (£9) Cadi Card £9.50 (£8.50) and can be booked by contacting the Arts Centre ticket office on 01970 62 32 32 or online at www.aber.ac.uk/artscentre
